

COMBAT HATE!

DIGITAL EMPOWERMENT WORKSHOP

For grades 8-12

Museum of Tolerance (MOT) is offering a new dynamic, classroom-based workshop that engages students in critical thinking for decoding and rejecting online hate. This is an online safety curriculum aligned with ISTE digital citizenship standards and based on foundational media literacy skills. Students will apply Center for Media Literacy's 5 Key Questions to diverse real life examples compiled by the Simon Wiesenthal Center (SWC)'s Research Department. They are challenged to interpret the hateful messages and their impact. The workshop ends using an action planning worksheet which all students take home for ongoing use.

The workshop is 50 minutes and is delivered in your classroom by one of our trained facilitators.

BOOK NOW!

To request a FREE workshop, register here: MuseumOfTolerance.com/combathate

For more information email: youthed@museumoftolerance.com, or call: 310-772-2508

The MOT is a recognized provider of anti-bias and critical thinking education in Los Angeles. Drawing from the Museum's exhibits such as "Digital Hate.com" and "Assuming Responsibility" the workshop is interactive and engages youth in determining their own solutions. The workshop provides an opportunity to begin and maintain critical conversations between adults and students regarding online safety and speaking up against hate.

This program relies on the participation of all caring adults in a school community. Ask us about free PD for educators interested in learning the workshop and access to free supporting educational resources.*

MUSEUM OF TOLERANCE
A SIMON WIESENTHAL CENTER MUSEUM

www.museumoftolerance.com

Follow the Museum of Tolerance and stay up to date on programs, events and ways you can get involved:

@museumoftolerance

@musoftolerance

@museumoftolerance