"ASTONISHING. Let those who think they've heard every inspiring tale of Holocaust survival see this film."
– John Defore, The Hollywood Reporter.

"GRIPPING AND MOVING.
A substantial contribution to Holocaust cinema."
– John Anderson, Variety

In October 1942, Esther Stermer, the matriarch of a Jewish family in the Ukraine, leads her family underground to hide from the pursuing Nazis.

Living almost a year and a half in near-total darkness deep within two cold, damp caves, theirs is a harrowing story like no story ever told. It is an incredible story of strength and survival against all odds in a place . . . like NO PLACE ON EARTH.
